

>>GGGroup Launches New Website

November 1, 2009

New York, NY – GGGroup is a New York City based information technology company that specializes in providing affordable IT solutions and consulting to small and medium sized businesses in New York. GGGroup is announcing the launch of its newly redesigned website. As GGGroup has grown through the years, so has their need to connect with their current and potential clients. Creating a more interactive experience for GGGroup's clients was the mission behind redesigning the website. New features include a help desk and support center, a log in page for existing clients, free downloadable tools, links to the blog and social media pages, and an overall easy to use Web 2.0 design to help GGGroup's clients make the most out of their IT dollars.

"Our updated website has now become a virtual company front for our current and potential clients. An abundance of information is now available and easily accessible about technology and all of our plans and services. We believe in the power of technology and now our updated website encompasses and shares that belief with hundreds of visitors each day." - GGGroup President, Eddie Wong.

About GGGroup

Founded in 1991, GGGroup is the leading remote management technology company located in the heart of Manhattans' Times Square. GG Group is the clear choice for personalized, IT consulting services and the best option to support the technology needs of small/midsize businesses in the New York metro area. Please contact us to learn more about our suite of value-added services that distinguishes us from our competition; one of our representatives would be happy to discuss our service approach and determine if it's appropriate for your needs.

To get started immediately and schedule an initial consultation call us at 212 245 1818 or email sales@gggroup.net.
